| Upon our arrival, the female started removing kitchen appliances from the residence. It was explained to her that she could only remove personal items such as clothing and hygiene items. Female argued that she had bought the appliances. It was explained that court would decide who got the appliances and the female was instructed to retrieve her clothing (NOTE: On a previous escort the female had retrieved numerous items of clothing that the male had placed in the driveway). The female started to argue with the male about the appliances and wanting to remove food. The female was instructed to put the appliance she was holding back. The female was advised if she continued to attempt to remove other items, the escort would be completed. The female walked to a back bedroom carrying the appliance. When the female came back into the kitchen, she continued to argue with the male. The female was advised the escort was being terminated and she needed to exit the residence. The female continued to argue with male and myself. The female finally exited the residence, where she continued to argue with me that she needed her clothing and items. The female was again informed that the escort was terminated and she needed to leave the property. The female did finally leave the residence. | | | | | |
